To Whom It May Concern:

The Alaska Native Language Center was established by state legislation in 1972 as a center for research and documentation of the twenty Native languages of Alaska. It is internationally known and recognized as the major center in the United States for the study of Alaska Native languages. The mission of the Alaska Native Language Center and Program is to cultivate and promote Alaska's twenty Native languages.

The Alaska Native Language Center is the copyright holder of various publications in and about the St. Lawrence Island / Central Siberian Yupik language, including The St. Lawrence Island / Siberian Yupik Eskimo Dictionary, A Practical Grammar of the St. Lawrence Island / Siberian Yupik Eskimo Language, Ungipaghaghlanga, as well as numerous pre-primers, primers, and other books and booklets produced by the Alaska Native Language Program and the Alaska Native Language Center.

We are writing to express our support for the Yupik language project being undertaken by Professor Lane Schwartz from the University of Illinois and Professor Sylvia Schreiner from George Mason University. We hereby authorize Professor Schwartz and Professor Schreiner to create derivative works from the above-named materials copyrighted by the Alaska Native Language Center and the Alaska Native Language Program, and to release the resulting materials and computer tools under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution No-Commercial 4.0 license.
